File – 027

Second Affiliated Hospital, Hainan Medical University

Excerpt:

Investigator: What I'm saying is that the time is needed from admission, examination, and all the way to the transplant surgery—the entire time?

Zhang Shanbin: Now listen, if he is admitted first and gets his examination done first, it would probably take another four or five days or so after his examination is completed, okay?

Investigator: Okay. You can do it (the surgery) in just four or five days after his examination is done, right?

Zhang Shanbin: Yeah, we can do it right after the examination!

File – 030

First People's Hospital of Kunming

Excerpts:

Dr Yang Ping: For blood type B, it shouldn't take long. If lucky, if after this call you get him registered today, he may get one by tomorrow. That happened a lot!

File – 039

President of Guizhou Medical University and Former President of Affiliated Hospital of Zunyi Medical School

Excerpts:

Liang Guiyou: Ah, it should be fine. It can be done in three months for sure.

Investigator: If this is okay, then how about the organ sources? Can you find us a healthier, younger and better one (organ)?

Liang Guiyou: I can get it; I can find one.

ETAC Note: There are a number of leading questions in this investigation however the call recipient still offers the above information so we have included it.

File – 052

First Affiliated Hospital, Zhengzhou University, Henan

Excerpt:

Investigator: Right, you are right, because after the confirmation, is your liver source supply tight? Can we get a liver organ soon? Can we get it in a month?

Nurse Wang: Well, in some fast cases, wait time is only two to three days, but in slow cases, it's about a month. This will need...

File – 059

Beijing YouAn Hospital, Capital Medical University

Excerpt

Investigator: Ah, my husband is blood type B, so, approximately how long does he need to wait for his surgery?

Doctor Zhang: Generally, we can make the arrangements in one month.

Investigator: Is it possible to get it done in one or two weeks? It is an urgent case.

Doctor Zhang: You know, he must come over to get the tests done first. We'll determine how soon we need to get it done based on the test results. Such routine surgeries usually can be done within one month.

File 068

Zhang Shengbin, Director of Hepatobiliary Surgery Center, Vice President of Bao Gang Hospital, the Third Affiliated Hospital, Inner Mongolia Medical University

Excerpt:

Zhang Shengbin: Sometimes that happens, if there's an organ source that suddenly shows up in these few days! If not, it could be ten days to half a month, one or two months, or something like that.

File 069

Armed Police General Hospital, Beijing

Excerpt

Nurse 1: Like those who have been waiting here, some are fast. There were cases where it took two weeks; there were also cases where it took one month; there were cases where the surgeries were done right away upon admission, when there were matched organs found. So, it's hard to say, because the liver source and kidney source are not communicated or arranged beforehand and it is possible that there is a match that becomes available all of sudden, which we don't know either.

File – 083

Qilu Hospital, Shandong University

Excerpts:

Doctor Wang: You need to check if there're any patients being discharged. If so, if beds become available, then it is your turn.

Investigator: Oh, as my customer told me, one of his relatives came and got his transplant done very fast, just in only half a month, according to him. So, he told me to come here to enhance our chances. So, there is such a chance to get it done here at your hospital in half a month, right?

Doctor Wang: Hum...If fast, it's only half a month. It depends on how soon our patients can be discharged. If they are discharged quickly, if the hospital beds become available, then getting admitted into the hospital can be very quick

Audio file requested

ETAC Note: This call appears to indicate that it is possible to receive a transplant once a hospital bed becomes available. This is not possible in an ethical system. It indicates the organs are available on demand and dependent on a bed in the hospital being available.

File – 092

People's Liberation Army No. 107 Hospital, Yantai, Shandong Province

Excerpt:

Feng Zhendong: It depends on if we have the liver source. If you had called earlier, then we would have had it today.

Investigator: What does it mean that if I had called earlier?

Feng Zhendong: It means that I would have done it for you today.

Investigator: Registration means waiting in line, right?

Feng Zhendong: Yes. It would be good if you had called last week.

Investigator: Is that so?

Feng Zhendong: We would have had it today

Feng Zhendong: Yes, if you come here to register, maybe a liver source will become available immediately. But the surgery can be done at least three days later. It cannot be done as soon as you come over.

ETAC Note:

1. It appears that this PLA hospital has organs arrive on a particular day upon being ordered.
2. In an ethical system, surgeries are not done 3 days after an organ recipient goes to the hospital for the transplant. An organ recipient is rushed to the hospital once the organ becomes available.

File - 093

First Affiliated Hospital, Zhengzhou University

Excerpt:

Nurse Yan: Ah...Most of our cases are done like in half a month, yes, most of them are like that. For the details, you will have to talk with the director in person, and I can only give you a rough idea now, because the director, along with his whole group, is off work now.
